36th Annual San Francisco Comedy Competition Finals Hit Cache Creek's Club 88 on October 7

Brooks, Calif. – If you're ready to laugh, then you'll be in the right place. Experience the 36th Annual San Francisco Comedy Competition in Cache Creek Casino Resort's stunning Club 88 on Friday, October 7 at 9 p.m.

The venerable San Francisco Comedy Competition is an annual, multi-week, judged, stand-up comedy contest. Robin Williams, Dana Carvey and Rob Schneider are but a few past participants in a competition that has a history of "discovering" extraordinary talent. This year, more than thirty comedians, out of hundreds who applied, performed in shows held in comedy clubs, bars, restaurants, casinos and theaters in San Francisco and around the Bay Area. Contestants performed 3-7 minute long sets in one of two preliminary weeks, consisting of six shows in six venues over six nights. The top five from each preliminary week then met in the semi-finals week, which required them to perform 8-12 minute long sets for another six shows.

The top five from the semi-finals have moved on to the finals, where they will perform 15-20 minute long sets in five more shows, including one night at Cache Creek, which is the second stop in the series of final performances.

The 36th Annual San Francisco Comedy Competition Finals hit Cache Creek Casino Resort's Club 88 on Friday, October 7 at 9 p.m. Tickets are free with a Cache Club card or for $20 each at the door.
